'BRINGING THE U TO YOU' LECTURE SERIES KICKS OFF JAN. 27

MISSOULA-

The "Bringing the U to You" 2005 Great Falls Lecture Series begins Jan. 27 and will feature lectures varied topics, including Missoula's most important architect, endangered species, geothermal springs and ethical journalism.

The series features lectures by faculty members from The University of Montana and Montana State University. The lectures are scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. in Heritage Hall at the MSU-Great Falls College of Technology. Tickets are $10 for one lecture or $25 for all four.

The lecture schedule is:

Jan. 27 -- "A.J. Gibson's Urban Vision for Montana," UM Professor Rafael Chacón.

Feb. 10 -- "Quartering Soldiers, Harboring Species," MSU Professor Rick Stroup.

Feb. 24 -- "The Outer Limits: Life in Geothermal Springs of Yellowstone National Park," MSU Professor William Inskeep.

March 8 -- "Journalism Ethics: An Oxymoron?" UM Professor Carol Van Valkenburg.

The lecture series is organized by the Great Falls Area Alumni Committee, made up of Montana University System alumni who bring highlights from UM and MSO to Great Falls.

Tickets are available from committee members, at Kaufman's and Penny's Gourmet to Go or by calling 452-0393. Tickets also are available by e-mailing utoyou@hotmail.com.

Call 452-0393 for more information.
